HOLD BOARDMAN

Funeral for Detective Chief Will Be from R Street Home.

"GAVE LIFE TO SERVICE"

Maj. Pullman Says Death of His Aid Was Due to Overwork-Refused Vacation.

Robert H. Boardman, assistant superintendent of police and head of the department's detective bureau, died at his home, 1215 R street northwest, yesterday morning at 4:45 o'clock. Death was due to chronic uraemic poisoning, from which Inspector Boardman had suffered for several years. Members of the family were at the bedside when death oc-

Inspector Boardman was 54 years old and had been in the service of the police department since 1886. In twentynine years he rose from the rank of private to the second highest office his department could give. Most of his pro-motions were grouped within a few years. Five years after his enrollment he was a detective in the central office and ten years later was captain and the assistant superintendent of the force, ranking next to the major. When the department was reorganized in 1906 Mr. Boardman was created one of four in spectors.

Inspector Boardman's health had become broken under the strain of his duties. A year ago he suffered a col-lapse and was in bed for several weeks. His condition was so critical that his life was despaired of by his family and physicians. He rallied and returned to his office, though the attack left its mark Inspector Boardman literally has given his life to the service," is a sentence in a eulogistic statement issued yesterday by Maj. Raymond W. Puliman, superinndent of police. The statement says:

"He had worked early and late and had refused to absent himself from office even for a day. I had tried to persuade him to cease working night, but he had persisted in coming back to the office after the close of the ordinary day's work. As recently as Friday I urged him to take a vacation and get a rest, but he said that he felt well and would not take an outing this year other than few days' fishing late in the fall."
Central office detectives paid respects to their chief last night by visiting his home in a body. Two central office men were stationed at the home during the night and another will be detailed tonight. Funeral arrangements are being made by Detective Sergt. Charles Evans. The pallbearers will be Detective Sergts. Embrey, Stringfellow, Warren and Ber-man and R. Hart, confidential clerk, and E. L. Phillips, private secretary to the

The funeral will be held tomorrow from the home at 1315 R street at 2:30 o'clock and will be in charge of Masons, with Episcopal rites. Interment will be in Rock Creek Cemetry. The inspector is survived by his wife and four children. A son, Robert H. Boardman, ir., is in the employ of the District government. The three daughters are Miss Marie Boardman, Miss Mabel Boardman and

Lieut. James Hartley, who has been in charge of the central office at night, will perform Inspector Boardman's duties until his successor is named. Lieut.
